PROFILE

Career

Maite Ludwig studied law at the Ludwig Maximilian University of Munich (LMU), specialising in Criminal Justice, Criminal Defence and Crime Prevention.

She completed her legal traineeship (Referendariat) at the Higher Regional Court of Munich, including placements at the Munich Local Court in the White-Collar Crime Division and at two leading law firms specialising in white-collar criminal law.

Since graduating, Maite has been pursuing a doctorate (Dr. iur.) under the supervision of Professor Dr. Engländer at LMU. Her doctoral research focuses on lay defence in criminal proceedings. Alongside her doctoral studies, she worked at an international commercial law firm in 2025.

Maite joined stetter Rechtsanwälte as an Associate in 2026. She advises and represents individuals and companies in all areas of white-collar criminal law.

In addition to her legal practice, Maite teaches criminal law and criminal procedure courses for the Hemmer Legal Revision Course (Juristisches Repetitorium Hemmer).
